

Scott and Heather Kleiner Lecture Series

Plato Mini-Festival

As a follow-up to the International Plato Society's Interim Meeting on "Platonic Moral Realism" being held at Emory University in Atlanta March 13-15, on Monday, March 16 UGA's Department of Philosophy will host a Plato Mini-Festival starting at 3:30 p.m. in room 115 Peabody. Three extraordinarily distinguished scholars of Plato will be delivering papers:

Sarah Broadie (University of St. Andrews, Scotland): "Plato and Aristotle on the Theoretical Impulse"

Luc Brisson (Le Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique, Paris): "Why Teleology is Problematic in Interpreting Plato's Timaeus"

John Rist (University of Toronto): "Plato and Platonisms, with a Special Glance at the Plato of Thomas More"

The Moderator of this event will be Professor Eugene Garver, St. John's College, Emeritus.

Monday, March 16, 2015 at 3:30-6:30 PM
Peabody Hall, Room 115

Reception will Follow Lectures

*Partially funded by the Willson Center for Humanities and Arts and
The President's Venture Fund*